

Land's End

the last resort

Where Nature, Silence, and Stories Meet.

I. THE INVITATION

Come for Nature. Stay for your Soul.

Some places do not ask to be visited. They ask to be entered, slowly, with the wonder of arriving somewhere older than language. Land's End is one of those places — three hundred acres of community-conserved forest, an hour beyond Bhopal, where the loudest sound is birdsong and the longest silences become the most generous companions.

II. ABOUT

Not a resort. A healing space.

You don't visit Land's End. You arrive in it.

Land's End is not a conventional resort. It is a healing space — a place to set down the weight of the city and ground yourself in something older and steadier. Here, you slow down enough to become part of the forest rather than a visitor to it.

We practice slow, mindful living. Days unfold at the pace of light and birdsong. You wake with the forest, eat what it grows, walk its trails, and sit with its silences.

Sojourners arrive carrying the week. They leave lighter than they came — not because we promise transformation, but because the forest, given time and quiet, does its slow work.

Come to ground yourself. Stay to become one with nature.

Sumiran

Forest

A 300-acre living, breathing forest.

90 acres Water bodies — a 60-acre lake and kilometres of forest streams

100 acres Organic farms, feeding every kitchen at Land's End

110+ acres Lush green forest, including a 25-acre sacred grove

Live inside a forest.

Not beside it. Not with a view of it. Inside it.

For as long as you stay, the 300 acres are yours to inhabit. You wake to birdsong, not traffic. You walk to the lake before breakfast. You eat what the farm grew that morning. You become, for a while, a forest dweller rather than a holiday-maker.

Wake with it

First light, herbal infusion, the forest stirring around you.

Eat from it

Organic meals, grown on the farm, cooked simply, served warm.

Sleep within it

Dinner under the stars; lights out by ten; deep forest quiet.

A day, unhurried.

This is the rhythm we keep — an invitation, never an obligation. Follow all of it, some of it, or none of it. The forest doesn't keep score.

5:00	Wake	Herbal infusion and warm water, as the forest stirs.
5:45	Meditation & Yoga	Guided, gentle, in the open air.
6:15	Forest Immersion Walk	Ending at the water's edge.
8:00	Breakfast	Organic, unhurried.
10:00	The Active Hours	Adventure — kayaking, archery, zipline, and more.
1:00	Lunch	From the farm to the table.
2:00	Yours	Rest, journal, wander, or simply do nothing.
4:30	Evening Tea	Tea and snacks as the light softens.
5:00	Evening Activities	Play, walk, gather.
7:00	Dinner	Served under the stars.
8:00	Night Gatherings	Storytelling, music, jamming, stargazing.
10:00	Lights Out	Deep forest quiet.

Night forest walks and other experiences arranged on request.

XI. EXPERIENCES

More than a stay.

Land's End is not a conventional resort. It is a living, breathing space where retreats unfold with intention. From meditation and forest walks to storytelling circles and moments of shared silence, every experience here is designed to help you slow down, listen inward, and reconnect — with nature, with others, and with yourself.

Gather

Storytelling circles and fire-side evenings under open sky.

Be still

Guided meditation, slow walks, and long, generous silences.

Reconnect

With nature, with others, and — quietly — with yourself.

A place to arrive fully, stay present, and leave transformed.

XII. ADD-ONS & AUDIENCE

ADD-ON EXPERIENCES
